

When Saul of Tarsus was on the road to Damascus, with letters from the high priest at Jerusalem, authorizing him to arrest Christian men and women and bring them back as prisoners, he was suddenly halted about mid-day by "a light above the brightness of the sun, shining from heaven".

Upon falling to the ground before this great light, he heard a voice calling him by name "Saul, Saul..."

"Who art Thou LORD?" Saul asked.

"And the LORD said, I am Jesus..."

Then this man (who, in his hatred for Jesus and all His followers, threw them into prison, consented to their death, made them suffer terribly, attempted to stamp out the very Name and memory of Jesus) on his knees bowed before this very Jesus, ascended now in heaven, and asks in humble subjection "What wilt Thou have me to do LORD?"
